Case Is Continued

Joseph Kirk Unable To Appear In Court—Grand Jury To Get Evidence

The bondsmen of Joseph L. Kirk of Bar Harbor appeared in Municipal Court yesterday morning with affidavits from Kirk's physician stating that he was confined to his bed and unable to appear in court in his own behalf on charges arising from the automobile accident at West Rockport four corners Oct. 25.

Kirk was charged with reckless driving as a result of the accident that took the lives of four occupants of a car owned by Mrs. Clara T. Follett and operated by Russell B. Nash of Rockland. Mrs. Rosetta L. Ross of Rockland and Mrs. Bernice Esancy of Washington, succumbed a short time after being admitted to Knox Hospital and Mrs. Follett and Russell Nash died one week ago this morning.

Due to Kirk's condition, Judge Dwinall continued the case from week to week until such time as Kirk's condition will allow him to appear. County Attorney Stuart C. Burgess will present evidence arising from the case to the Knox County Grand Jury this afternoon.

[EDITORIAL]

THE PART THAT SPORTS PLAY

In these days of national and international stress it probably passes the understanding of many persons how there can be such a tremendous amount of interest in mere sport—football for instance. But thanks to the radio, and widespread newspaper publicity, the public is becoming more and more sport conscious, and it is well that this should be so, for healthy sport is a valuable factor in any community, and especially at this time when there is such necessity of maintaining a firm morale. In this State sports interest is centering just now in the climax to the State football series, which will have its championship status settled with the Armistice Day game between Bates and Colby at Waterville. Bates has turned in the season's sensation, coming from comparative security to win with ease both of the games which it has thus far played. Should Bates win on Armistice Day it would have a clear title; should it lose, the championship would go to Colby by virtue of not having lost a game, although one was a tie. Rain or shine Armistice Day will see Waterville temporarily the sports capital of Maine with many thousands of rabid fans in the stands wildly cheering their favorite team. And of course there will be the usual large gathering when Bowdoin and Maine have their little get-together at Orono Saturday.

A STEADFAST ORGANIZATION

The annual roll-call of the Rockland branch of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union last Friday, called attention anew to that brave and determined body of women which has stood for so many years on what it firmly believes to be the side of the right. Sheered at and derided by many persons who favor the prevalence of looser morals, the Rockland W.C.T.U. has continued its unshaken course—not from the standpoint of idle or officious interference with the rights of others but doing its best to mold public opinion against illegal liquor traffic, against the insidious drug menace and others which threaten any community. Everybody will concede that churches are necessary to this end, and that they may well have auxiliaries like the W.C.T.U.

ATLANTIC SALMON
(Sunday Telegram)

The State House agreement for concerted action in the restoration of Maine's Atlantic salmon streams is one of the best bits of news to come out of Augusta in some time. On all sides is now admitted not only the possibility but almost the certainty of getting our streams restocked if proper procedure is followed. The conference admitted the wisdom of previous plans which were of the hit-or-miss variety, too diffuse, too extensive and but half-hearted.

A new committee of responsible members is to concentrate the State's efforts upon a few of the most eligible streams, and to lay out a fundamental corollary program of artificial propagation, fishways, dams, stocking, fishing regulations and some kind of approach to the business of pollution. Maine ought to get somewhere now with its Atlantic salmon fishery, and that is of importance to its economic picture as well as to its field of sport. There seems to be general agreement that Maine streams are as naturally suited to be salmon streams as any in New Brunswick or Newfoundland. The thing to do is to restore them to their former condition. Evidently, the new steps shortly to be instituted are to open an admirable and successful campaign.

MORNING'S NEWS IN A NUTSHELL

Interest today centers on the municipal elections in Boston and New York. The present incumbents, Tobin of Boston, and LaGuardia of New York, appear to have the pole.

The United States has demanded $2,967,092 from Germany for damages in connection with sinking of the freighter Robin Moor—one of the first American ships sunk in the Battle of the Atlantic—but thus far has received no reply, the State Department disclosed today.

The climax of one of the most heroic episodes in the history of the United States Navy was reached yesterday when the United States destroyer Kearny, battered, bloodstained but still proudly aloft, crept into port escorted by the U.S.S. Greer. Seven were killed and four are missing.

The Navy Department announced last night that 12 members of the Nation's armed forces, including one Army and two Navy officers, were killed when a Navy bomber crashed during operations in the "Atlantic Ocean area," but gave no details.

He Wandered Away

Aged Resident of Trinity Street Found At Jameson's Point, Thinly Clad

James B. Thompson, 84, wandered away from his Trinity street home early Saturday night and into the heavy storm clad only in trousers and a light shirt.

His daughter discovered his absence shortly after midnight and called the police to search for him. Officers Sukeforth, Chapies, Ingraham and Philbrook were assigned to the task. Torrential rain and bad going greatly hampered them as well as the fact that no one knew how long he had been gone or had any idea where he might have started for. After an hour's fruitless search, the police requested additional men and Deputy Chief Almon P. Richardson called Fire Chief Van E. Russell who in turn called out his call men and emergency crews.

A systematic search of the area from Camden street to the waterfront was started with the portable floodlights of the ladder truck being used.

Two hours later after having covered that section thoroughly, the search spread out to the surrounding territory. Searchers on Waldo avenue found him lying on the sidewalk at a point close to the home of Fred M. Blackington at 3 a. m. The long walk and cold rains had exhausted him and he was unconscious from exposure.

He was taken to Knox Hospital in the police ambulance where he is said to have suffered no ill effects from his experience.

The volunteer searchers who found him were George Sleeper and Alex Vardevoulis.

The Black Cat

(By The Roving Reporter)

This column today was to have been devoted to the Roving Reporter's description of a trip to a picturesque point on the Maine coast, but the Weather Bureau decreed otherwise. Befooled by the bright sunshine which endured for a very brief period in the forenoon Bob Webster and I started down the coast thinking the fog would burn away and the clouds dissolve. But within 25 miles of our destination the fog was so dense that instead of being able to look half way across the Atlantic one could scarcely see his hand before him with the naked eye. So Fred Green's Schoodic Nubble must await a more favorable opportunity which we fondly hope will come before Winter lays down its forbidding barrage.

Instead of pursuing our vain quest along the coast we headed inland and once more had our noonday repast at Day's Hotel in Milo where we had fared so well on a recent visit. And there we were told they had seen no fog all day. Anyhow we had a reasonable assortment of sunny weather, finding no further rain until after we had supper at Clint's in Waldoboro.

Sere and brown were the leaves on all the hardwood trees, and the woods and highway were soggy after the prolonged rainstorm of the previous day. I don't know what it did to those drouth-stricken wells, but I do know that I had two feet of water in my basement which anybody could have had for the asking.

I have had to undergo some heckling because I asked if they didn't formerly spell Amsbury with an "e" at Rockport. I am forced to admit that the "e" is taboo, but with that point settled I must ask why the Amsbury sign was affixed to the southern end of the Rockport bridge upside down.

Many snow fences are already in position, and we heard of several localities where there had been two or more inches of snow. Heaps of sand and gravel have been assembling at strategic points against the

The "Maine Schools on the Air" program was resumed Sunday, and we listened to that offered by the Stevens High School of Rumford—most creditably done. Cony High takes to the air next Sunday.

It was my pleasure in Brunswick Saturday to listen to the Bates College Band and watch its maneuvering in midfield. Most college bands are content with forming the initials of the two colleges which are engaged in the football contest, but not so the Bates band which went through one of the finest drills I had ever seen staged, and making such a splendid demonstration both in music and marching as to stamp it the best college band in many years. I was a bit disappointed that it did not receive the proper amount of applause from the Hubbard stand; and I must also confess that I was disappointed that Adam Walsh, the Bowdoin coach did not receive a bigger hand when he helped carry an injured Bates player all the way across the field.

Building At Camden
Rockland Trio Will Have a New 75-Foot Fishing Boat

The Camden Shipbuilding and Marine Railway, Inc., is framing a fishing boat for a Rockland combine comprised of Capt. Charles B. Carver, Capt. Lew Wallace and Supt. Sumner Whitney of the F. J. O'Hara & Sons Inc. plant.

The boat will be 75 feet in length and 17 feet 10 inches in beam and will be powered with a 160 horse-power Fairbanks-Morse diesel engine.

The owners expect to put her in the fleet which is refitting out of the O'Hara Rockland plant as is their first boat, the Iva M., which was built by the Rockland Boat Shop.

Warden Charles W. Carver of the Sea and Shore Fisheries Department is on his annual vacation of two weeks and is this week making a fishing trip on the trawler Iva M.

Book Review

(By K. S. F.)

Philomena Leigh, author, H. Barleau, the Christopher Publishing House, Boston.

From the "midwestern countryside" comes to life, through the pages of this resonant saga, a heartwarming story which deals with hardworking energetic and serious peoples in the early days, when this territory about which the author writes was acquired through treaty with the Indians. At once the Indians decamped and proceeded to move into parts of Michigan, but more of them into the valleys of the Mississippi up and down our land.

Among the throbbing pulse beats of the numerous presses of our lands flow thousands of stories that deal with love and life's adventures in the uplands and lowlands of cultural inhibitions of thought in all its phases. From the hard working daily grubbing for food, to the star eyed philosophers who live by depth of thought productions, our book life is replenished.

Today we have been saddled with books of no vital spark of inspiration, no stressed motive for life at its best—mostly the books of today stress the sex problems as paramount to all that is worth while.

In this story of Philomena Leigh, whose Scotch-Irish inheritance gives her strength of poise in her association with neighbors, as well as austere dealings with them we find much of interest as we do in the country parson of this small flock of stodgy village peoples. H. Barleau is also the author of "The Moon for Sara" that held attention.

Some one has said "To despise the animal basis of life, to seek value only at the level of conscious intelligence and rational effort, is ultimately to lose one's sense of cosmic relationships."

Read this journey through a page of life and decide if there is truth in this saying.

The Shakespeares

Scene From "Julius Caesar"
Read—"Mob Reactions
In Literature"

The Shakespeare Society met last evening at the home of Mrs. Julia Murray, with 26 members present.

A letter from Miss Ruth Rogers, librarian, expressing the thanks of the trustees for the $10 which was recently given the Rockland Public Library, was read.

The president, Mrs. Alice Jameson, brought to the attention of the members the meeting of the Civilian Defense Committee called by Mayor Veazie for Nov. 10, and hoped there would be many representatives from the Shakespeare Society present.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Leola Wiggins Act III, Scene 1 of "Julius Caesar" was read with the following members taking part: Mrs. Jane Beech, Mrs. Gertrude Burrows, Mrs. Katherine Derry, Mrs. Harriet Frost, Mrs. Alice Jameson, Mrs. Rosa Littlefield, Mrs. Irene Moran, Mrs. Helen Orne, Mrs. Josephine Rice, Miss Mabel Spring, Mrs. Emily Stevens and Mrs. Leola Wiggins. Notes on Caesar were read by Mrs. Ethel Lovejoy, Mrs. Jane Beech, Miss Ellen Cochran, Mrs. Vanessa Cowan and Mrs. Wiggins.

An excellent paper on "Mob Reactions in Literature" was read by Mrs. Jane Beech. She showed how, in Julius Caesar, the mob reactions were pity followed by violence. Among the mob scenes she discussed were those in "Ben Hur" when the mob changed from boldness and brutality to cowardice and fear, and in "Ivanhoe" when the mob reacted from awe to fear. She said "The crowd has exercised a potent influence upon the Dramatist in every era of the theatre. He who writes poetry, prose, or for the theatre must not despise the crowd. Playing upon the emotions is essential in a mob scene."

Mrs. Beech presented an interesting diversion when she played E. H. Sothern's recording of Anthony's Oration at the death of Caesar from Act III, Scene II.

The next meeting of the Society will be held Nov. 17 with Mrs. Edith Bird, hostess, "Julius Caesar" Act III, Scenes 2 and 3 will be read, with Mrs. Katherine Derry leader. Mrs. Alice Jameson will have a paper on "Superstitions and Folklore."

Community Bowlers

The American League bowlers entering into their third week of the season's competition saw Rice wrest a victory from the Old Timers last night for a 4-1 score. F. Richardson rolled a 284 for high for the ancients and Cargill and Goss shared honors for Rice with a 271 and 270 respectively.

Old Timers — Miller, 244; R. Richardson, 243; French, 254; F. Richardson, 284; Goodnow, 234—total, 1259.

Rice—Walker, 266; Howard, 248; Goss, 270; Hodgkins, 243; Cargill, 271—total, 1298.

The same league, night and place saw Perry's blank out the aggregation representing the Elks club 5-0, while Legage led them with an evening's total of 327. Ken Roes rolled high for the Elks and built up a score of 267.

Perry's — Marshall, 235; Allen, 262; Demetri, 299; Post, 254; Legage, 327—total, 1377.

Elks — Blackford, 239; Harmon, 242; Marshall, 249; Cole, 262; Roes, 267—total, 1259.

Meant No Reflection

Chairman Rice of the Red Cross Explains To Mrs. Naoma Mayhew

Rockland, Nov. 1.
To Mrs. Naoma D. Mayhew, Camden:

I am sorry that my letter to The Courier-Gazette, published Tuesday Oct. 28, appeared to reflect upon any particular person. It seems that the responsibility for lack of knowledge of Red Cross Nurse's Aid training plans was quite general. It would not be fair for me to blame individuals for failures which are the result of a too common neglect to carry out committee duties in an energetic manner, and systematic failure either to attend our meetings or send a deputy.

It is as elected chairman of the Red Cross that I make these comments, for the sake of tasks more important than the Red Cross has ever faced before. I hope I do not suffer from a deluded feeling of self-importance, nor esteem myself superior to any other persons. As for the article to which I alluded, no doubt it was a strictly accurate account of what actually occurred at the meeting and hence was a

With Outdoor Holiday Decorations In Plastics Streets To Be Gay Than Ever This Christmas

AN earlier-than-usual interest in community Christmas decorations that seems to indicate the gayest yuletide in years is reported by the Du Pont Company.

Though Christmas is still more than three months away, sign and display builders throughout the country are already making plans for street decorations that are more extensive than any of a decade or longer.

The company notes an increasing trend toward the use of more practical materials for street displays in the early interest being shown in "Cel-O-Glass," plastic-coated wire mesh. This is a translucent, opaque cent material that is normally used in the fabrication of cold frames and poultry houses. But because it is weatherproof and durable, yet flexible enough to be easily worked, "Cel-O-Glass" lends itself readily and inexpensively to outdoor displays and signs.

In recent years, hundreds of communities have expanded their Christmas decorative schemes by combining part of a previous year's decorations with new designs and units incorporating permanent and lasting features. Substantial savings have been effected in this way, yet in many cases whole shopping areas have been tied together in an

More and more motorists are learning that Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts police—especially on the roads between Bangor and Boston—are strictly enforcing the 25 and 40 mile an hour speed limits.

"Down East Sketches"

This One Tells Of Former Stonington Man and Executive Councilor

Percy T. Clarke, Ellsworth attorney and widely known in county and State political circles. Fifty-five year old son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Willard Clarke, he was born in Egypt, Me., famous now as the site of the half-finished castle of the Austin sisters for whom the elder Clarke worked for many years.

He is the eldest of four children, who are—besides himself—Dr. Raymond Clarke of Ellsworth, Mrs. Herbert Warren of Stonington, and Milo B. Clarke of Ellsworth. In 1915 he married Clara B. Hamblen of Stonington. They have three children, Barbara O. Clarke, a graduate of Jackson College and now in her second year at Peabody Law School, Priscilla H. Clarke, a freshman at Colby College, and Percy T. Clarke, Jr., just out of short pants.

He spent his early life as a laborer in Egypt and Franklin. Pulled stakes and matriculated at Maine Central Institute, Pittsfield, and following his graduation entered the Maine Law School, now defunct but then located in Bangor. Following his graduation he entered practice in Bangor. A short time later, he set up offices in Stonington where he remained until his election to the office of county attorney. He then moved to Ellsworth, where he built the fine house he now occupies with his family on Oak street.

The office of county attorney he held with more than common success for three terms of two years each. That was in the "good old days" (from a newspaper standpoint) when a half-dozen or so murder trials in a single term were considered just par. With less than that number on his docket, a county attorney felt he was not earning his money. Best known case as county attorney: State vs. Tim Mosley, charged with murder. Following his tenure as county attorney, he served through Gov. Barrows' administration on the executive council.

Three years ago he took into partnership William S. Silsby, who then as a recent graduate and new member to the Hancock county bar was playing a lone-wolf role, albeit successfully. The practice of both, always growing is now conducted under the firm name of Clark & Silsby. They have mutual hobbies, which are camping, hunting and fishing.

Taking full advantage of the fancies, end-plays and legal jockeying with which he had to cope as county attorney, Mr. Clarke is now in private practice considered one of the better defense counsel of Maine.

It was while Mr. Clarke was paying the dual role of county attorney and sheriff, the latter by gubernatorial appointment following the death of the incumbent that he fell victim to the hoax that he recalls with ironic pleasure.

Suspicious that Roy Tyler of Brooklin had a large cache of illegal liquor on his premises, Mr. Clarke made the raid, accompanied with a force of deputies. Creeping through the underbrush in the rear of the Tyler house, he surprised the latter as he was hastily making way with a large cask to a place of hiding. Tyler dropped the keg and ran. Mr. Clarke, his clothes torn by brambles and barbed wire, gained possession of the keg and had it brought to the county seat where it was placed under lock and key in the "boozie" room. Tyler was later apprehended.

docket in the county attorney's favor. Finally Tyler's case was called. He had for defense the late Dan Hurley of Ellsworth and the now Justice Edward P. Murray of Bangor. The defense readily admitted that the sample in a glass container was "strong liquor," and also admitted that the liquid in the keg, from which the sample had been taken, was of the same potent brew.

The jury retired and some time later returned with a verdict of acquittal.

Surprised, Mr. Clarke made discreet inquiry of a jurymen, whom he knew. He was startled to learn that the jurymen drank up the sample and promptly voted a unanimous verdict of guilty. Believing this was not enough for 12 healthy men, the keg was tapped. The verdict was reconsidered and Tyler was voted unanimously innocent when the contents of the keg were discovered to be pink water.

The Kiwanis Club

Lloyd Richardson New President—To Study Chemical Warfare

The Kiwanis Club was entertained last night, after its weekly luncheon, by Coach Jimmy Stephens of Rockland High School, who showed several reels of motion pictures taken during the High School football games this season.

The annual election took place with the following slate of officers to lead the organization for the coming year: President, Lloyd M. Richardson; first vice president, Donald T. Leigh; second vice president, Roland Ware; directors, Howe W. Glover and Arthur F. Lamb.

Dr. Edwin L. Scarlott reported on the child feeding program of the club which is carried on day at the Community Building. Fifty youngsters are getting a hot wholesome meal each noon.

The local club, last night, became the first Kiwanis Club in the nation to set up a definite defense training program and lay plans to carry it out at once.

The club will dispense with the usual meetings for the next six weeks and will enter into a training program on chemical warfare, gas defense, first aid, etc. Francis D. Orne, John M. Pomeroy, Louis B. Cook and George Brackett, who have graduated from the fire department chemical warfare school will serve as instructors.

Red Cross Helps Solve Problems Of Our Recruits

Through Its Directors in Camps Red Cross Links Men With Home

Washington, D. C.—On the home and military fronts the American Red Cross is turning its focus on the man in uniform. In his behalf, more than 10,000 nurses are being recruited. Volunteers are donating their blood for a huge plasma bank. Red Cross women in chapters throughout the country are making 40,000,000 surgical dressings, and knitting sweaters for men in outlying posts and sailors on patrol.

But these are just fragments of the story. In military and naval stations, the Red Cross is concerning itself with the personal problems of the service man, helping him adjust himself to military life. For the disabled, the Red Cross is on the job in service hospitals, helping to speed recovery of the sick through a morale-building program.

In mobilizing a 2,000,000-man fighting force, the personal problems of the able-bodied man in uniform have in turn become problems of the morale divisions. Red Cross field directors stationed in all camps and reservations have been entrusted with the task of helping to solve these problems.

Speaking in a nation-wide broadcast recently, Chief of Staff Marshall, of the Army, addressed the following words to Red Cross field directors:

"When you help straighten out any of the great variety of tangles that human beings seem unable to avoid, you are helping to maintain morale on the home front and on the military front; you are helping us in training for defense."

The disabled man in a service hospital also can look to the Red Cross for help in speeding recovery. Medical-social workers, trained for their specialized assignment, are on duty at Army general and Navy hospitals to aid service physicians, to act as a medium of communication with the families of hospitalized men and to conduct recreational programs for convalescents.

The Red Cross provides recreational service for patients in all Army and Navy hospitals. Sixty-five new hospitals are under construction by the Army, and their recreation buildings are being equipped and staffed by the Red Cross as each one opens.

As part of the Army and Navy safety programs, members of the national Red Cross staff are qualifying instructors in First Aid and Water Safety among the ranks of the enlisted man.

The number of Army and Navy camps assisted by Red Cross field directors has increased in volume 140 per cent since Selective Service has been in operation. During the past year 126,515 cases involving active service men have been handled in the camps.

The Red Cross recently made available $1,000,000 to meet an emergency need for athletic equipment for the Army and Navy. This need arose when Government appropriations for the purpose became exhausted.

In addition to providing the Army and Navy with an official reservoir of nurses, the Red Cross is cataloging the nation's medical technologists. Through this program, in which approximately 3,000 technicians have registered, the Army and Navy will select such professional personnel as laboratory workers, dietitians, dental technicians, pharmacists and other categories of trained technologists.

Defense Nutrition

Statement By the Head of the A. & P.—Some Recent Steps Explained

Food distributors must increase their efficiency if the government's "nutrition-for-defense" program is to be a success, J. J. Byrnes, New England President of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company declared today.

Announcing the local celebration of the company's 82 anniversary, he said present world conditions place added importance on A&P's traditional policy of encouraging the consumption of healthful foods by eliminating unnecessary handling costs and narrowing the margin between what the consumer pays and the producer receives.

"With government nutrition experts agreed that vitamins are as vital to America's strength and morale as planes, tanks and guns, all food distributors have a responsibility to move food to consumers with the utmost efficiency," Mr. Byrnes said, adding that "our company is proud of its part in meeting that responsibility not only since the government's nutrition program was started, but in every one of its 82 years of operation."

This efficiency has been maintained since the company was founded in 1859, he said. A later major step in the company's growth was the advent of the "economy stores" through which consumers demonstrated their desire to get more food for their food dollar by dispensing with credit and delivery expenses. Most significant recent trend has been the growth of the supermarket which, as developed by A. & P. brings food to consumers at the lowest "markup" ever achieved in the retail grocery industry, he said.

Mr. Byrnes pointed to the fact that his company's customers this year will save over $50,000,000 on their food as compared to the lowest prices which could have been charged on the basis of operating costs five years ago. Similarly, growers and shippers marketing fresh fruits and vegetables through A. & P. stores now get a 13-per cent greater share of the consumer's dollar than they did only four years ago.

That these benefits to producers and consumers have not been achieved at the employees' expense is indicated by the company's recent adoption as a national policy of the first five-day, 48 hour week ever offered in grocery retailing, he said. The shorter week, coupled with recent wage increases boosting the organization's level even further above the national average, gives its employees the shortest general hours and best working conditions in the industry, he declared.

The feasibility of increasing the use of healthful foods in line with the government drive to raise dietary standards is shown by success of the company's own drive this year to encourage consumption of fresh fruits and vegetables. During a 10-week period, he said, its purchases totaled 33,203 carloads, compared with 27,574 carloads bought in the same period last year, a gain of 20.4 percent.

Biddy Goes to Work Early

America will need millions of eggs this winter, as part of the "defense food" production. Kathryn Hines, pretty 4-H club girl, shows biddy that soldier hours will be expected. Many poultry producers follow this practice of turning on electric lights in laying houses early in the morning during winter months. The practice compensates for the fewer hours of daylight and gives hens a full day of eating and laying.

To what does a soldier pay homage at a flag raising ceremony . . . to a few yards of dyed bunting? Is it merely military form and pomp? No, because that bunting is George Washington . . . it's Abraham Lincoln, too. It is also three thousand miles of width . . . a few thousand of depth . . . it's the Rockies, the great plains, the industrial centers and 130,000,000 people. It's America that swirls out—that goes up the pole to the strains of "To the Colors" . . . it's America that gets the homage. Give America your salute, too. Put up the flag outside your home . . . show Americans outside that there are Americans inside.

'Catastrophe Units'

The formation of "catastrophe units" in each hospital in New York state was advocated recently by Dr. Frederick J. McCurdy, president of the New York State Hospital association. "Each hospital should have a unit that can go in event of any emergency, military or otherwise," he said, adding however, "not that we should think in terms of catastrophe."

Preserving Eggs

To preserve eggs, put the eggs in an atmosphere containing 2.5 per cent of carbon dioxide and having a high but not saturated humidity. The temperature must not be allowed to rise above 50 degrees F. Such eggs are still fresh enough to poach after 7 to 10 months' storage.

Told About Indians

Lady Knox Chapter Hears Interesting Papers By Mrs. Snow and Mrs. Carlson

The Daughters of the American Revolution, Lady Knox Chapter, met Monday at the home of Mrs. Anne Snow, Talbot avenue. The ladies assisting Mrs. Snow were Mrs. Helen Carlson, Mrs. Adelaide Butman, Mrs. Eva Wisner, Mrs. Winnifred Karl and Miss Edith Bicknell. Nineteen members answered the roll call.

The subject of the program was "The American Indian." Mrs. Anne Snow was the first speaker. She traced the history of the Indians in this vicinity, more particularly the Penobscot and the Passamaquoddy Tribes. Both tribes now have a government of their own.

At Old Town Mrs. Snow was told very few Indians know how to make a birch bark canoe. It is almost a lost art. At the Snow Farm arrow heads and flint have been unearthed. There are still to be found clam and oyster shell heaps, about 100 feet long, 20 feet wide and more than five feet deep.

She related many interesting Indian stories of the early days in Thomaston.

Mrs. Helen Carlson's subject was "The Arts and Crafts of the Western Indians." The Navajo Indians make sterling and coin silver jewelry and are especially known for the lovely rugs they weave. The Hudson Indians also do a huge business in silver and rugs.

A display of Indian work, including baskets, wood carving, bead work, flint, jewelry, an Indian doll and other articles, concluded an interesting afternoon.

Tea was served by the hostesses. The next meeting will be held on Dec. 1, with Mrs. Katherine Haines, 192 Broadway.

Annual Roll Call

W. C. T. U. Has Good Attendance and An Inspirational Meeting

The annual roll call meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held Friday in the First Baptist parlor, with a good number of members and several guests present. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Helen Hyde Carlson, who gave an inspirational talk on the theme "Ye Are the Light of the World."

Many responded to roll call with scripture verse or quotation. Several not able to be present, sent their verses.

It was voted to renew subscriptions to the Union Signal and Young Crusader for the schools and public library. It was voted that the officers and as many members as can attend the civilian defense meeting Nov. 10 as requested by Mayor Veazie.

Mrs. Lillian Joyce entertained with a solo nicely rendered. Miss Margaret Crandon, county president, gave four points, she wished emphasized in the year's work. More Loyalty Temperance Legions; follow the plans of State and National; gain new members; deepen and strengthen the spiritual life. She called attention to the new membership campaign plan "The Stars in the Flag"—Star of Hope, the woman who secures one new member; Star of Faith, one who secures five new members; Star of Loyalty, one who secures 10 new members. The attention of members was called to an advertisement appearing in several current magazines, asking that they write the publishers protesting against such insidious advertising.

Mrs. Clara Emery presented a scheduled program for the ensuing year, and following some discussion it was adopted. Mrs. Susie Lamb spoke about the need for helpers in doing relief sewing and suggested that members set certain dates for group sewing at the Red Cross room. Also that they should be considering what could be done for entertainment of service men on shore leave in the city. Following adjournment, refreshments were served by Mrs. Hattie Bickmore, Mrs. Edith Gregory, Mrs. Kate Brawn, Mrs. Alice Kittridge.

Mrs. Ada Lawrence of Newburyport, Mass., has been visiting Mrs. James Lawrence, Uimer street.

Mrs. Joseph Robinson has returned to her home on Rankin street after having been a surgical patient at Knox Hospital.

Announcement is being made of the engagement of Mrs. Caroline L. Brandt, daughter of Mrs. Fred S. Cressey of Forest Avenue, and Pvt. Samuel A. Kelley of Cumberland avenue and Virginia. Mrs. Brandt attended Portland High School. Mr. Kelley attended the schools of Rockland and was employed at a local cigar store. He is stationed at Fort Eustis, Va. No date has been set for the wedding.—Press Herald.

This And That

By K. S. F.

If the Boy Scouts would gather all the waste paper in Rockland they could soon have a car load and donate their efforts to the Red Cross work that is performing such valiant and successful support for the needs of the Allies through the fine leadership of Captain Rice. Every home in Rockland would be more than pleased to help. "Waste not—want not." Soon this excellent activity that has come down through the ages will have more meaning.

The Commissioner of Agriculture of Maine has announced a program by which 500,000 bushels of this State's potatoes are to be diverted to starch. Last year 10,000,000 bushels were used in this same program. This is excellent help in doing up this crop. The small and less desirable potatoes are all eliminated from the markets to this starch business.

Costly

"How much do you want for that big dog?" asked the prospective dog owner.

"Five dollars, sir," replied the dealer.

"How much for that small fellow over there, then?"

"Ten dollars."

"And for that very tiny one?"

"Fifteen dollars."

The customer looked puzzled.

"Then how much will it cost me if I don't buy a dog at all?" he asked.—Montreal Star.

About $40,000,000 is spent yearly in the United States in maintaining about 5,000 public and private golf courses. Some money.

There has come to my desk from that genial and brilliant author and public entertainer, Joe Mitchell Chappel, a small booklet entitled "Friendly Cheer" filled with just that, and then at the close are extracts from some of his popular lectures, "On the Wing." On the inside cover is this poem:

COURAGE
Press on! Though mists obscure
The steep and rugged way,
And darkness doubt besets—
Soon dawn the brighter day.
Keep on! Though hours be long
And days deep-fraught with woe,
Let patience do her perfect work,
And vanquish every foe.
Hope on! Though all seems lost,
And threatening storms beat high,
The battle you will surely win
If you play well your part.

In Home Economics

A Practical Unit Course Has Been Established For the N. Y. A. Girls

Last January the National Board of Education was assigned to supervise all the education that had been done up to that time by the National Y. N. A.

There was naturally an adjustment period when the educational activities were at a standstill. Then the Maine Board of Education assigned Miss Florence Jenkins, of the State Department of Home Economics to contact project teachers and assign them to their work, with recommendations from the N. Y. A. State Administrator, the local superintendent of schools as local administrator, and the local N. Y. A. committee to assist in every way possible.

As former vocational consultant for the Girls' N. Y. A. organizations throughout the State, and having taught and planned the related information on the projects which were organizing classes; teaching arts and crafts; giving talks on vocational subjects; organizing committees to work with each N. Y. A. to help sponsor the work, and to assist also in the related information programs.

After this assignment was automatically dropped Frank E. Welsh, State N. Y. A. Administrator kindly recommended me to Miss Florence Jenkins for the educational work here in Rockland.

The classes began Aug. 11 and the courses were approved by Miss Jenkins, these were both practical and cultural, much the same as I had previously given throughout the State.

As the N. Y. A. girls have to work eight hours a day now, when the project is in session, the educational program has to be held on Saturdays. But as the students are divided into two groups of two weekly periods each, this is not too great a hardship.

The course began with a study of color harmony and design because we thought this basic and would permeate all other work undertaken. The primary colors were studied and their relation to and development from each other. This course for the first three months was called "Making Things to Sell," as a part of the whole in the "Practical Unit Course, in Home Economics." Talks were given on "Arts and Crafts as a vocation," and "spare time work as a help in National Defense."

Lessons were given in free hand drawing from objects. Also the making and applying designs from natural sources, such as leaves, flowers vines, etc. Many balsam pillows are made to sell every season in gift shop and exchanges, so the students were taught how to make them. They were most attractive, made with monks cloth and designed in "pine tree" cross-stitch, also in chintz with blanket stitch edges. Discussions were also held as to the best materials to be used, and samples of these with prices were added to their note books. It was a revelation to find that not many of our group, although living in "woody" Maine, knew what "balsam" really was.

Lessons have been given by a guest, Miss Laura Pomeroy, who is now studying Fine Arts in Fairmount College, Washington, D. C. Miss Pomeroy gave instruction in "What To Wear," what colors and lines were becoming to certain types, and showed some of her own designs and figure sketching, and gave reasons for this line of work.

In making things to sell, the girls made miniature rock gardens after the samples made by Mrs. Helen Gushee of Union, Mrs. Gushee sells many hundreds of these miniature gardens every season, to gift shops, to Montpelier Home Industries, and through the Maine Art Craft Guild, Saco, Mrs. Gardner of West Meadow road supplied the small seedlings—"hens and chickens," etc. Some of our students thought these were "cacti," but many older people have thought so too! Garden club members take notice, help!

Talks have been given on "Simple Rules for Health," and "Health as a prime requisite in obtaining and holding a job."

In "Good Manners," also as an asset, on the "Industry and Arts of the Chinese Women," on "House Work as a Vocation," on the "History and Making of Hooked Rugs," by Mrs. Anne Snow on "The Value of Learning to Make Things Sell," on the prices to be expected and markets.

Silhouettes were painted on glass; donated from the Glover Co. This was the first brush work that many girls had ever undertaken, and the results were surprisingly good. These too, if well done sell fairly well, they teach precision in workmanship, and are also useful in the decoration of one's own house at little cost.

Another project was the making of a small sewing bag from good material with contrasting color for lining. These too sell readily.

Other lessons we considered helpful were the designing, making, and using of simple stencils. These can be used in many ways in home decoration, and for things to sell. The work was exemplified by painting small trays and decorating them when dry with the original designs made and cut out by each girl. Original designs were also made by each student, and applied to burlap, for hooked chair mats, the designs were mostly good, and we are at present hooking the mats, later we will also attempt some rugs.

We are indebted to Miss Maude Hall for two lessons in drawing from still life, in the project room, and to one group of four, doing advanced work, for whom special lessons were held in the evening.

Talks have also been given in "Patriotism," "Meaning of the Flag," "The American Creed," the "Preamble to the Constitution," etc.

Also we have been using as a text book, a book sent us from the State Department of Economics, on "Keeping a House Clean." Other text books will be used later.

We are hoping that when the units of this educational work are properly co-ordinated, we shall see fine results. Many of the girls have marked artistic ability, and others show proficiency along other lines.

One of our aims is to devise a wider variety of projects for young women, so they may participate to a greater extent in the pursuits of modern life and acquire experience which will enable them to perform the jobs which are traditionally theirs and that they may also take their places in "National Defense" as home makers.

—Helen Hyde Carlson, in charge of Educational Program for Girls' N. Y. A.

WARDEN WELCH'S REPORT

Showing What the Prison Farm and Prison Shops Have Been Doing

Warden John H. Welch of the Maine State Prison released the crop and shop figures for the past year to The Courier-Gazette yesterday. The statistics are staggering in what they show in profits made by the present system of farming and shop production within the prison walls. A gain over the old system almost unbelievable and one that has earned the sum of $46,698.91 for the taxpayers of Maine within the past 12 months.

Upon coming to the Thomaston institution in 1937, the present warden instituted a cost system in the prison shops and farm that, at the end of a year's operations would show every expenditure for crops and materials for the shops. All work was figured on a "cost basis," plus a reasonable profit. The prison went on a big business basis, the million dollar plant that is the State Prison became a smooth, efficiently running business which has shown a steadily increasing profit each year.

The section of the system that the public is most familiar with is, of course, the Prison Farm in South Warren as it is easily seen and the new buildings and huge fields planted to crops are noticed by everyone who passes them. Here the cost system was introduced and for each field was set up a record system which registers every operation and expenditure in that field and shows the crops gained from it and the profits between cost and the sale price obtained from other State institutions.

The charts show the amount of seed and fertilizer used and the crop yield down to the pound. In a minute's time, the Prison office can tell you the crop for this year in any section of the farm and the cost per pound or bushel of the product.

One outstanding feature of the scientific farming methods being used is the record of field 11.5 acres in size, and shows that the section was planted to potatoes at a seed cost of $269.50 and 493 bags of 5-8-10 fertilizer used at a cost of $700.35, for a total of $970.35. The field yielded 4845 1/2 bushels of potatoes which figured at 75 cents a bushel, which is the institution price, and below market gave a profit, after original costs had been deducted of $2,591.38. Below is shown a recapitulation of crops raised during the past season at the Prison Farm:

Beets (Greens) 1358 bushels; Beets (Yellow Eye) 38 1/4 acres, 598 1/4 bushels.

Beets (Greens, 1258 bushels; Beets 2 13-16 acres, 603 bushels.

Barley & Hay, 7 1/4 acres, 411 bushels.

Barley, Field Peas and Oats), 3 acres, 110 bushels.

Buckwheat, 1 acre, 36 bushels.

Cabbage, 1 acre, 10 tons.

Carrots, 2 acres, 795 bushels.

Cucumbers, 1/4 acres, 48 bushels.

Corn (Sweet), 14 acres, 207,850 ears; (Ensilage), 7 1/4 acres, 200 tons.

Lettuce, 1-5 acre, 58 bushels.

Peas, 5 9-80 acres, 704 bushels.

Potatoes (Green Mts.), 17 acres, 5260 1/2 bushels; (Irish Cobbler), 4 acres, 1887 bushels.

Pumpkins, 9-16 acres, 16,330 pounds.

Smart Augusta Girl

Daughter Of Portland Man Excels In The Art Of Metal Craft

Alicia Kay Smith of Augusta is a living refutation of the stock phrase, "I haven't enough time, for Miss Smith has time and over for the thousand and one things that she loves to do, and will even take time to be interviewed about her activities."

Chiefly known for her art with metal craft, Miss Smith's work in other fields is often relegated to the background. Few people realize that she has published two books of poetry and illustrated them herself. Her first publication, "Tall Children," is a compilation of poems written from the age of 12 to 20 and the second volume, published in 1934, was entitled "Over the Moon's Edge." Miss Smith comes by her artistic talents naturally as her father was of that temperament and she was reared in an atmosphere that enjoyed and appreciated artistic endeavor.

Miss Smith is a full time employee of the State Department of Agriculture where she does secretarial work in connection with pure food research and hearing. It might be thought that such kind of work would not be enjoyable to anyone of a creative nature, but Miss Smith is as astute in this as in her other activities.

Five years ago, she became interested in metal craft through a friend who was fascinated by the work and taking courses. Miss Smith attended the Metalcraft School in Providence, R. I., conducted by Mr. Rose, who with Cirano, wrote the text which is the Bible of metalcrafters. After taking regular courses and Summer school work, Miss Smith returned to Augusta so imbued with the delight of the work that she wished to continue her instruction. Approaching the Maine Craft Guild on the subject, she soon found herself teaching instead of studying, in the classes which are sponsored by the Guild.

This Winter she is conducting two advanced and one elementary class in Augusta and will soon be hard at work instructing Girl Scouts in the rudiments of metal work. She plans her classes so that each semester has a 12-week course varying in length from one to three hours, depending upon the interest and desire of each student. Beginners' work consists of making small articles such as coasters and ash trays, and progresses until the more advanced students turn out large trays, book ends and other more complicated articles.

Miss Smith prefers working in silver or pewter, but also uses copper and brass. A good many of the designs used by the metalcrafters are etched with nitric acid, and Miss Smith designs not only for articles to be made in large numbers, but also for individual desires of customers.

The classes are conducted under the sponsorship of the Maine Craft Guild with the State paying one-third of the cost, the federal government paying one-third and the students paying the remainder. The majority of the people taking the courses are doing it with the intention of increasing their incomes by sale of the articles.

Some of the pieces created by the instructor of the Augusta group bear typically Maine ornamentation such as pine cones, while others are made with more modernistic designs. One of the most striking is a copper bowl, only slightly curved with a single Old English letter in the center.

To keep her idle hands out of mischief on Sundays, Miss Smith teaches a class at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, and any spare moments she may have are spent in keeping abreast of the current literature by reading the volumes sent by the three book clubs to which she belongs. Although teaching of metal craft is recreation after office work, reading is her chief diversion in her otherwise idle hours. Good mysteries are a source of enjoyment as well as other fiction and biography.

WAS TAKEN IN THE DARK

The above picture was taken in Park Theatre Tuesday night, using infrared light which is invisible to the human eye. The subjects were unaware that their pictures were being taken. This method of photography has been widely used in England during blackouts and is known as blackout photography or the use of black light. The Courier-Gazette is the first newspaper in Maine to be equipped for this type of work and the first to publish a photograph taken with invisible light.

Miss Smith's energies. The Blue Elf is a gift shop which she opens for the holiday season, selling not only her own craft work, but that of other craftsmen in the State, along with some other goods.

Her own hobby, is her sophisticated silver Persian, Tinker, who, at times, feels that he owns his mistress' apartment. Tinker, a two year old beauty whose father was a double champion, will retrieve a ball as if he were a spaniel, and is the joy and pride of Miss Smith's heart.

Miss Smith, for all her varied activities, is a leisurely kind of person who seems less hectic than the average club woman and will always take time for a detailed explanation of a technical point to a pupil or a quiet chat with a friend.

Miss Smith is a daughter of William W. Smith of the Copper Kettle staff.

PIES IN SEASON

Yes, pies have their seasons. What can be more appetizing in the Springtime than a perfectly made and properly baked mince pie. The latter has much to do with the success of the pie. Then what? a rhubarb pie? pink, juicy, well done on both bottom and top.

Next in order is the luscious strawberry member of the desert list. And this, too, needs care and skill in both the making and the baking. Next in order of fruits we find the raspberry, then blackberry, and some will call for a currant pie, but they are apt to be too sour to suit most of us.

And now for the real New England delight and you all know that is the blueberry pie. Before time's up for these, the first of the season's apples will entice the cook for the well tailoring of a man's delight—an apple pie. Along with the first apples will horn in the delicious peaches and they, too, join in the pre-fest and make our mouths water with their luscious flavor. About now comes the Pan D-widies and cobblers that we New Englanders delight in at the Fall season.

Before we know it the squashes are ready for their turn and no better dessert can be thought out than a perfect squash pie, cooked until by slow process there is that satin-like top that we most wish for and too seldom get. Next the grand old pumpkin. I always think it bad art and not quite cricket to serve pumpkin pie before Thanksgiving. And now for the King, Queen and Royal favorite of the pie realm—the mince pie, and that member of the pie family has a natural holiday flavor and never should be called for before the Christmas season. Other varieties can mix in to suit the careless.
